

Great Results for the Future Generation of NHS Workers

Despite the rollercoaster of a year, we have been delighted to celebrate our students' results and university destinations with them. Most of them are going on to study health care and science courses, including medicine, nursing, paramedic science and pharmacology.

Principal, Ruth Umerah said, "We are extremely proud of our students, particularly because they are going into such important professions in health and social care. Many of their university offers have resulted from the vocational experience they received at Health Futures, as well as their academic grades. Two of our students who are going on to study medicine have been awarded scholarships with one receiving an unconditional place".
